Circus Mirandus

by Cassie Beasley

"Who doesn't love the circus? Thrilling performances, exotic animals, and the constant promise of surprise make circuses seem magical. In Circus Mirandus the magic isn't an illusion, but rather very real—and astounding! Raised by his beloved Grandpa Ephraim, Micah has grown up hearing tales of his grandpa's visit to an incredible circus as a boy. It was during that visit that Ephraim was promised a miracle, and now, many decades later, Ephraim is ill and needs that miracle. Can Micah find Circus Mirandus and obtain the promised wish that could save his grandfather? Micah is a wonderfully appealing young hero and Beasley's glorious debut is fresh, unique, and completely original."

Rook by Sharon Cameron

"I could tell you that Rook is an homage to The Scarlet Pimpernel set in a post-technological future France, where wealthy families are imprisoned and publicly executed. But that wouldn't help you understand what this book is really about. Rook is about the characters: the smart, stubborn young heroine who risks her life to save those who can't save themselves; the rakish smuggler who may be an opponent or an ally; and the memorable group of supporting characters that make Rook a story that you'll savor until the very last page."
