Great Circle: A Novel

By Maggie Shipstead

"Great Circle is about two women 100 years apart: pilot Marian Graves and Hadley Baxter, the actress cast to play the famous pilot. This epic novel is fascinating, adventurous, and well-written, with great characters, historical details, and fantastic settings. Don't miss this journey!"

—Kathy Morrison, Newtown Bookshop, Newtown, PA

People We Meet on Vacation: A Novel

By Emily Henry

"What fun! This delightful book should be in every beach bag this summer. A hilariously comedic rom-com with memorable characters, set in varied vacation spots in various years. I enjoyed the changing timeline and seeing the relationship as it grew through the years."

—Shelley Lowe, Monkey and Dog Books, Fort Worth, TX

Crying in H Mart: A Memoir

By Michelle Zauner

"I was struck by just how much I loved this book for how it walks through grief not as a way to leave it behind, but as a way to remember its exact shape. I'm grateful for its funny, self-deprecating, and wise observations, and for its difficult beauty."

—Steve Haruch, Parnassus Books, Nashville, TN

Secrets of Happiness: A Novel

By Joan Silber

"No one is better than Joan Silber at revealing the hidden links that connect people. The small, human details in Secrets of Happiness feel at first like ripples in a pond, but they prove in the end to be mighty waves in an ocean the size of the world."

Mary Jane: A Novel

By Jessica Anya Blau

"Mary Jane is 14 in 1975 and her summer nannying job is filled with surprises, spontaneity, and love as she is pulled into the family of the little girl she watches. A sweet and funny story of discovering yourself, your loved ones, and where you fit in. It really hit home for me."

The Woman with the Blue Star: A Novel

By Pam Jenoff

"In The Woman With the Blue Star, Jenoff continues to showcase herself as one of the masters of historical fiction, deftly intertwining emotional power with historical accuracy. Much like The Lost Girls of Paris, this is one our customers will be coming back for again and again."

Mirrorland: A Novel

By Carole Johnstone

"You will tie yourself in knots trying to figure out what's happening in Mirrorland, the story of two sisters growing up with different stories attached to the games they play, stories that take on a life of their own years later as buried memories come to the fore."

The Plot: A Novel

By Jean Hanff Korelitz

"I devoured this smart, suspenseful novel about a failed novelist who reignites his career with a stolen plot and gains fame and notoriety. Korelitz's depiction of the book world is a treat for those of us in it, but her twisty, psychologically astute plotting will hold broad appeal."

Ariadne: A Novel

By Jennifer Saint

"Satisfying the need for more Greek/Roman transformational myths from much-needed other viewpoints, Jennifer Saint delivers tales of Ariadne and her sister Phaedra's life on Crete and beyond. Less heroic yarn and more character inquisitiveness—a refreshing addition."

Madhouse at the End of the Earth: The Belgica's Journey Into the Dark Antarctic Night

By Julian Sancton

"What I love about polar expedition stories is imagining surviving the same situation. Madhouse at the End of the Earth is a fascinating study of chasing fame at any cost and the price paid when things go horribly wrong. A worthy addition to the canon of polar expedition history."

The Music of Bees: A Novel

By Eileen Garvin

"Comparing this book to Eleanor Oliphant left me a bit skeptical, but the comparison is fair and I'd even say that The Music of Bees stands on its own beautifully. Add in some interesting facts on bees and heartwarming stories of lovable, offbeat characters and you have a winner."

Pop Song: Adventures in Art & Intimacy

By Larissa Pham

"Pop Song is an engaging blend of art criticism, memoir, and travelogue with the raw and confessional style of the microblogging generation. Larissa Pham's prose bounces seamlessly and dexterously from looking outward to inward and back with equal attention, passion, and insight."

Olympus, Texas: A Novel

By Stacey Swann

"A gripping debut that takes all of the skeletons out of the Briscoe family closet and throws them on the front lawn. The depth of character development speaks to my own east Texan family, which feels disconcerting and scandalous. A page-turning read that you won't want to end."

While Justice Sleeps: A Novel

By Stacey Abrams

"From the first pages, this crime novel from author/activist Stacey Abrams drew me into the world of the Supreme Court (and chess!) and the seedy underbelly of the U.S. government. This race through the streets of Washington, DC, also contains a deeply satisfying ending that I won't give away."

Sorrowland: A Novel

By Rivers Solomon

"Vern is a captivating protagonist from page one: gritty, determined, flawed, clever, and resourceful. The story slowly fills in all the details of a life that wasn't what it seemed, and offers an ending you can't predict. Sorrowland is beautiful, ugly, engaging, and awe-inspiring."

Foklorn: A Novel

By Angela Mi Young Hur

"At its heart, Foklorn is a haunting and lyrical novel about mythology, science, generational trauma, and identity, but it's also much more. I took my time reading this since I wanted to really stop and think about the questions it raised. A truly memorable, genre-bending reading experience!"
