

Your Next  Great Read

The Many Daughters of Afong Moy: A Novel

By Jamie Ford

“Jamie Ford explores the relationship of mind, spirit, and personal history in this gorgeous, multigenerational novel. The descendants of Afong Moy dig into their inherited pasts with astonishing results. A hopeful, beautiful read!”

—Beth Mynhier, Lake Forest Book Store, Lake Forest, IL

Your Next  Great Read

The Bodyguard: A Novel

By Katherine Center

“The Bodyguard is the perfect comfort read. You’ll feel your shoulders drop in the safety of the world of this book. There’s great chemistry between the characters and it’s a joy to get to know them. I’m already rooting for a movie version.”

—Tiffany Phillips, Wild Geese Bookshop, Franklin, IN

Your Next  Great Read

The Last White Man: A Novel

By Mohsin Hamid

“I loved this book! Mohsin Hamid’s Exit West stands up as one of my favorites, even years later. His newest delivers just as brilliantly. Themes of race and bigotry, couched in almost fable-like storytelling, feel timely, yet enduring.”

—Rebekah Rine, Watermark Books & Café, Wichita, KS

Your Next  Great Read

The Book Eaters

By Sunyi Dean

“How far will a mother go to protect a son that is hungering for more than books? Sunyi Dean’s work of fantasy is frighteningly real. Think Hannibal Lecter: sit back, grab ‘a nice dry Chianti,’ and get ready to devour this debut masterpiece.”

—Bill Reilly, The River’s End Bookstore, Oswego, NY

Your Next  Great Read

Calling for a Blanket Dance: A Novel

By Oscar Hokeah

"This is an incredible family epic in sleek, unpretentious form. Hokeah uses his characters as crisp prisms through which we see the nature of family: vicious and precious, mournful and joyful, everything in-between. A remarkable debut!"

—Amanda Qassar, Warwick's, La Jolla, CA

Your Next  Great Read

Mercury Pictures Presents: A Novel

By Anthony Marra

"Mercury Pictures Presents is an utterly satisfying novel, full of rich characters and a beautifully choreographed plot told with wry humor, great love, and writing so smart you'll want to underline every paragraph. Read it!"

—Kris Kleindienst, Left Bank Books, St. Louis, MO

Your Next  Great Read

The Rabbit Hutch: A Novel

By Tess Gunty

"The Rabbit Hutch is an inventive and lyrical tale of Midwestern decay, environmental destruction, and toxic masculinity. John Brandon meets Lauren Groff with the occasional experimental aside. An ambitious and assured debut."

—Matt Stowe, Greenlight Bookstore, Brooklyn, NY

Your Next  Great Read

Properties of Thirst: A Novel

By Marianne Wiggins

"Words don't do this book justice. A family tale, a moral novel of a shameful time in our history, and a love story built with care and humor. You won't want to leave the Rhodes family when the novel ends. Grab this and fall under its spell."

—Anne Whalen, Brown University Bookstore, Providence, RI

Your Next  Great Read

Dirtbag, Massachusetts: A Confessional

By Isaac Fitzgerald

"Isaac Fitzgerald's empathy shines while his conversational prose entralls. We hear a lot about 'nature versus nurture,' but neither explains that rare ability to be dealt a rough hand and say 'I will do better than this.' He's a gem."

—Amy Van Keuren, Charter Books, Newport, RI

Your Next  Great Read

The Last to Vanish: A Novel

By Megan Miranda

"I really enjoyed the mystery and how it unraveled for Abigail and Trey, and how the disappearances are connected. Megan Miranda is a great writer and I am always eager to read her new books – this didn't disappoint!"

—Stephanie Rivera, Chapter Two...a Bookstore, Lompoc, CA

Your Next  Great Read

The Kingdoms of Savannah: A Novel

By George Dawes Green

"Totally immersed myself in the deep south and long-standing family secrets with this delightful read. An engaging story with a wealth of history. Very much looking forward to more of Jaq and Ransom!"

—Kappy Kling, HearthFire Books, Evergreen, CO

Your Next  Great Read

A Map for the Missing: A Novel

By Belinda Huijuan Tang

"A poignant exploration of home, love, and ambition, set against the backdrop of Cultural Revolutionary China. Tang has a keen eye for familial conflict, and portrays regret with deftness. This is a beautiful, bittersweet debut."

—Ellen McLaren, Queen Anne Book Company, Seattle, WA

Your Next  Great Read

Stories from the Tenants Downstairs

By Sidik Fofana

“From the first sentence, we are immersed in the cadence of Harlem. We are one of the tenants struggling with autonomy and groping for success. These engaging stories offer insight into the lives and aspirations of inner-city people.”

—Sarajane Giddings, Blue Door Books, Cedarhurst, NY

Your Next  Great Read

Husband Material (London Calling)

By Alexis Hall

“Aching romantic and laugh-out-loud funny. Luc and Oliver, who fell in love in Boyfriend Material, reach the stage where everyone seems to be getting married. Will social pressure unite them, or drive them apart? A delightful read!”

—Carol Schneck Varner, Schuler Books, Okemos, MI

Your Next  Great Read

Just Like Home

By Sarah Gailey

“Just Like Home grabs you and doesn’t let go. Vera returns to the home where her father committed a series of gruesome crimes. With her dying mother in a hostile small town, Vera grapples with her past — and something moving under her bed.”

—Jo Swenson, Gibson’s Bookstore, Concord, NH

Your Next  Great Read

The Devil Takes You Home: A Novel

By Gabino Iglesias

“The best authors are guides. If I’m going somewhere as dark and terrifying as this story, I’m glad Gabino Iglesias is taking me there. If you’re new to his work, get ready; he’s got both hands on the wheel and knows exactly what he’s doing.”

—Chelsea Bromley, Snowbound Books, Marquette, MI

Your Next  Great Read

Delphi: A Novel

By Clare Pollard

"Delphi is my first, surprisingly urgent, foray into the new 'Covid World' genre. Written in snapshot chapters, Delphi shows us a world from our nightmares through a lens of classical mythology. Sharp, labyrinthine, and unputdownable."

—Scott Lange, The Bookman, Grand Haven, MI

Your Next  Great Read

Bookish People: A Novel

By Susan Coll

"Coll captures the loveable mix of quirky customers, booksellers, and writers who bring a bookstore to life. Fast-paced, hilarious, and insightful – it's sure to appeal to anyone who works, owns, or shops in an indie bookstore."

—Jan Danielson Kaiser, Beaverdale Books, Des Moines, IA

Your Next  Great Read

The Last Karankawas: A Novel

By Kimberly Garza

"Galveston shimmers under the gifted writing of Kimberly Garza. Highly recommended for the richness of her characters – their community, hopes, dreams, and longings. I enjoyed the many voices necessary to create the book's tapestry."

—Nancy Scheemaker, Northshire Bookstore, Saratoga Springs, NY

Your Next  Great Read

Shutter: A Novel

By Ramona Emerson

"Rita Todacheene has seen ghosts since she was a child growing up in the Navajo Nation. Now a forensic photographer, Rita's life is upended by spirits seeking justice for their murders. This thrilling mystery left me hoping for more of Rita."

—Lia Lent, WordsWorth Books, Little Rock, AR

Your Next  Great Read

The Wild Hunt: A Novel

By Emma Seckel

“Moody and atmospheric, the islanders are forced to confront tradition, ancient superstition, and the secrets submerged to preserve their normalcy. A taut tale full of otherworldly activities and the tension of daily existence.”

—Bill Cusumano, Square Books, Oxford, MS

Your Next  Great Read

The Work Wife: A Novel

By Alison B. Hart

“Three women, a Hollywood high roller, and an explosive day set the stage for a novel that will blow you away. Any woman whose work has been overlooked, underestimated, uncredited, or unrewarded needs a copy of The Work Wife. Hear her roar!”

—Pamela Klinger-Horn, Valley Bookseller, Stillwater, MN

Your Next  Great Read

Dead-End Memories: Stories

By Banana Yoshimoto, Asa Yoneda (Transl.)

“As far as I’m concerned, Banana Yoshimoto can do no wrong. I don’t think there’s anyone who can write a sweet love story about a charming oddball the way she can. If you’re a fan, you’ll find more of what you love; if you’re new, jump right in!”

—Jordan Pulaski, Small Friend Records & Books, Richmond, VA

Your Next  Great Read

Autoportrait

By Jesse Ball

“A fascinating work of art that will make you think. What things and experiences make us who we are? Is any one of those things more important than the other? Is any one sentence more important than the next? There is no one quite like Jesse Ball.”

—Hannah Harlow, Book Shop of Beverly Farms, Beverly Farms, MA

Your Next  Great Read

This Story Will Change: After the Happily Ever After

By Elizabeth Crane

“Elizabeth Crane’s memoir exploring the end of her marriage and the beginning of a new platonic relationship is gorgeous. Her forms capture what it’s like to revisit old memories that might not be accurate. A beautiful one-sitting read.”

—Kate Storhoff, Bookmarks, Winston-Salem, NC

Your Next  Great Read

All’s Well

By Mona Awad

“Gloriously bananas, dark, weird, and so, so good. All’s Well is a big, messy, strange journey about chronic pain, Shakespeare, friendship, mental health, witchcraft, and work.”

—Rachel Barry, WORD Bookstores, Brooklyn, NY

Your Next  Great Read

Chouette: A Novel

By Claire Oshetsky

“From the beginning I was rapt, unable to look away from what is exactly the definition of awe: terrible and beautiful all at once. Absolutely one of the best reads of my year.”

—Chelsia Rice, Montana Book Company, Helena, MT

Your Next  Great Read

Harlem Shuffle: A Novel

By Colson Whitehead

“A love letter to 1960s Harlem that’s also a heist novel, a family saga, and so much more. Colson Whitehead proves once again that he’s always at the top of his game!”

—Alyssa Raymond, Copper Dog Books, Beverly, MA

Your Next

Great Read

Intimacies: A Novel

By Katie Kitamura

"A cool and precise portrait of a woman and system on the verge of breaking, this latest literary thriller from Kitamura quietly insinuates itself into readers' consciousness with subtle and haunting force."

—Stephen Sparks, Point Reyes Books, Point Reyes Station, CA

Your Next

Great Read

The Reading List: A Novel

By Sara Nisha Adams

"A beautiful novel about people connected by a local library and an amazing reading list. As the characters' lives are revealed through interweaving storylines, readers will root for them, cry for them, and celebrate their victories."

—Lisa Driban, Hockessin Book Shelf, Hockessin, DE

Your Next

Great Read

We Are Not Like Them: A Novel

By Christine Pride, Jo Piazza

"Lifelong friends, one Black and one white, have their relationship tested after the tragic shooting of an unarmed Black teen. A thought-provoking and timely read."

—Mary Kay Burnett, Buttonwood Books and Toys, Cohasset, MA

Your Next

Great Read